CAN I CALL THIS GOD?

DEVELOPING A DEEPER SENSE OF BELIEF
AND A MORE HOLISTIC CONNECTION BETWEEN FAITH AND ACTION

In this journey of words and stories, Brian Eslinger invites readers to explore major religious and spiritual topics. Using both his own life and wisdom from the world's religions as resources, Eslinger walks through the landscape of connections between historical religious ideals and contemporary ethical issues. All proceeds are being donated to sustainable projects of the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Ames.

WINTER PLAY Scripts to Inspire Seasonal Celebrations

Stories connect us to one another, to the earth, and to the seasons. These six scripts offer people of all ages an opportunity to become part of these winter stories. Each play explores what it means to be alive in the winter season, connecting with traditional holiday motifs and exploring new ones. Notes offer guidelines for producing each play, but author Brian Eslinger strongly encourages people to use their imaginations, invest their creativity, and have fun. Winter is a time to play; may these stories provide an opportunity. (Purchase includes limited right to reproduce scripts.)

For the past decade, Brian Eslinger has served the people of the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Ames, Iowa, as their minister. He's also been part of the Ames community, helping to begin and sustain a number of social-justice projects. An avid storyteller, Brian strongly believes in the possibility of stories to strengthen lives and create bonds in communities. During the academic year, he can often be found teaching World Religions at Iowa State University.
